

LEORGOFMAN

Newsletter.

Collection "Deep Inside" Spring-Summer 2016.

In the collection Spring-Summer 2016 "Deep Inside" designer explores the combination of the religious symbolism typical for the Middle East with the classic pieces of the women's wardrobe.

Streamy flying dresses, the accent on which can be clearly retraced within the whole collection, are made of pure silk, with a military style print.

Sleeves are decorated with the stripes, the patterns on the jackets and dresses have a strongly pronounced geometrical character and are deeply characterized by austere precision of their form. There is also slight finishing of organza.

The palette of the collection is mostly monochromatic. The leading colors of the collection are: noble white, deep blue and classical black.

The collection is described by laconic design, which is by the way stipulated by the inspirational source, the silhouette, that emphasizes femininity and elegance, complicated finishing details.

Another striking accent in the collection is striped pattern. This pattern is available in two classic color variations: the combination of white and deep blue or the combination of white and black.